excerpt from history of christian doctrine several years have elapsed since i engaged to prepare this work the unexpected delay in its publication is owing chiefly to the pressure of other and more imperative engagements one reason for it however is the fact that although the subject is one which i had long studied and on which i had given instruction to many successive classes more time was required for the composition of the book than i had anticipated this is partly for the reason that it appeared to me for the present purpose expedient to abandon for the most part the method which i had always followed in my lectures of arranging the matter under the heads of general and special doctrinal history on this topic something more is said in the introductory chapter this change of plan has involved an entire recasting of the materials to be incorporated into this volume a number of the ablest of the recent german writers on dogmengeschichte confine themselves to a description of the rise and establishment of dogmas in the official significance of the term according to which it denotes simply the accredited tenets of the principal divisions of the church the terminus of this branch of study is therefore set not later than about the opening of the seventeenth century in the present work the history of theological thought is carried forward through the subsequent essays at doctrinal construction down to the present time in other words the present work is a history of doctrine as well as of dogmas about the publisher forgotten books publishes hundreds of thousands of rare and classic books find more at forgottenbooks.com this book is a reproduction of an important historical work forgotten books uses state of the art technology to digitally reconstruct the work preserving the original format whilst repairing imperfections present in the aged copy in rare cases an imperfection in the original such as a blemish or missing page may be replicated in our edition we do however repair the vast majority of imperfections successfully any imperfections that remain are intentionally left to preserve the state of such historical works the english translation of my grundriss der dogmengeschichte has been made in accordance with my expressed wish by my former pupil and esteemed friend mr edwin knox mitchell it is my pleasant duty to express to him my heartiest thanks english and american theological literature possess excellent works but they are not rich in products within the realm of the history of dogma i may therefore perhaps hope that my grundriss will supply a want i shall be most happy if i can with this book do my english and american friends and fellow workers some service a small return for the rich benefit which i have reaped from their labors in reality however there no longer exists any distinction between german and english theological science the exchange is now so brisk that scientific theologians of all evangelical lands form already one concilium adolf harnack wilmerdorf near berlin march 17th 1892
